

Anthony Colins Institute

Educational Development

Short Comprehension Test

Below is an extract of text from a very famous book.
Read the text and answer the questions below which are all about the book.

Edmund meanwhile had been having a most disappointing time. When the dwarf had gone to get the sledge ready he expected that the Witch would start being nice to him, as she had been at their last meeting. But she said nothing at all. And when at last Edmund plucked up his courage to say, "Please, your Majesty, could I have some Turkish Delight? You – you – said – " she answered, "Silence, fool!" Then she appeared to change her mind and said, as if to herself, "And yet it will not do to have the brat fainting on the way," and once more clapped her hands. Another dwarf appeared.

What book does this extract come from?

Who is the author of this book?

The text mentions a boy called Edmund. What are the names of his brother and sisters?

.....

The text also mentions a Witch. What is the Witches real name?

What is the name of the land that the Witch is in?

What has the Witch done to the land?

Who is the main hero of this story?

What is the next sentence in the story?

List 5 other books that this author has written

.....