

Its not fair

Read this short story and rewrite it putting in the correct punctuation.

Hello said mark how are you I am fine thank you replied tom with a huge yawn but I am very tired why are you tired tom is it because you were out late last night at football training asked mark yes it is answered tom who looked very tired with his droopy eyes and messy hair i had to do thirteen laps of the football field yesterday and I was absolutely exhausted moaned tom it is not fair that horrible coach of ours bill is really mean he continued in a miserable moaning voice and no one else had to do thirteen just me he continued so why did you have to do more than all the others mark asked in a curious voice just because bill said I was a pain in the neck and he was fed up with me questioning everything I said answered tom why what did you do enquired mark I just told him that I thought he was rubbish at coaching and my gran could do better that's all said tom in an innocent voice